Ministry Sandbox

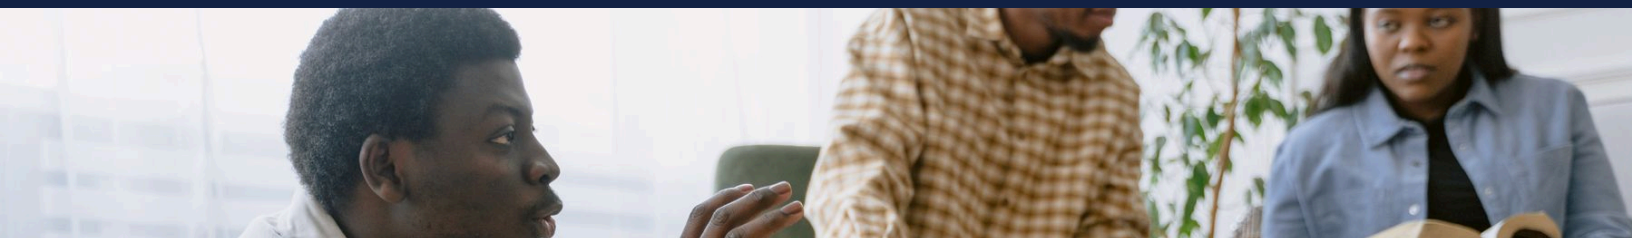

AN OVERVIEW FOR YOUR TEAM

Practice the hard conversations before they are real.

Your people rehearse the conversations of ministry with AI characters, before a real person is on the other side. Your leaders see where to coach without sitting in on every session.

How the practice works

1. Get the case
A leader assigns a case built from your teaching, with a short primer.

2. Talk it through
The learner answers an AI character in their own words.

3. Get coaching
After each response, the learner sees what landed and what to try. Then they try again.

4. Get scored
Each response is scored against your competencies.

5. Review and coach
Coaches see every response and its scores. Your leaders decide every grade.

Morling College pilot, July 2026: all 8 students surveyed after a conflict case study. Counts are ratings of 4 or 5 of 5.

8 of 8 said it taught what lectures alone could not (7 gave the top score)	8 of 8 would make it a regular part of theological training	8 of 8 said it strengthened skills for future ministry	7 of 8 said it raised their confidence in complex pastoral situations

Also, 8 of 8 said the scenario was one they could really face. Students' own ratings, one cohort. Dallas Baptist University uses it in a graduate course.

What we set up for your team

YOUR CHURCH'S DNA
Your logo, colors and language. Your mission, values and doctrine guide every piece of feedback.

BUILT ON YOUR TEACHING
We turn your modules, books or sermons into practice cases. Your team reviews each case first.

PERSONAL PROFILES
CliftonStrengths, DISC or Myers-Briggs results sit next to each learner's practice.

DEVELOPMENT PLANS
A plan is drafted from each learner's own practice. The coach confirms it.

COACHING CALLS
Coaches record calls with consent. The platform drafts the report and tracks issues that repeat.

REPORTING FOR LEADERS
Leaders see each response, its feedback, and a summary for the whole group.

Next steps
